A STATESMAN AND A WRITER.

MILL SPRINGS, WAYNE COUNTY, MAR. 7.
—To the many readers of this United States, I have given to you my ideas in regard to our future prosperity and happiness, in the first place I favor democratic rule, for I believe the country will prosper better under democracy than under republican extravagance. I say this because they favor a high tariff as a general thing, when we need nothing of the sort, it is unlawful and unconstitutional to collect any money off of the people except enough to defray the expense of the general government, then let us have a tariff for revenue only, and let that be as low as possible, then I say down with the dogmas and creeds, and wire pulling schemers and political bums that advocate a high protective tariff, and let us have it light on sugar and on all other southern taxable articles and every thing else that the duty is oppressive on, and further more I believe that the so called trusts and pool monopoly that is going on in the U. S. will eventually run in to some thing, we will not like to see so if there is fraud coming on the people congress should take steps to stop it, so we have the lumber trust, and wheat trust, and coal trust, and whiskey trust, and sugar trust, and oil trust, and milk trust, and every thing is going into trusts and being monopolized by the greedy capitalists, which may lead to business troubles, and financial imbalances. We have the finest and best country upon the globe and the raw material to manufacture nearly every needful article that goes to make up our supplies and wants, and it won't be long until we can compete with foreign nations in regard to our exports and imports, and I am not in favor of foreign emigration and believe it should be stopped, there is more people in this country now than can make a comfortable living, therefore we should not encourage pauper labor, because labor is the basis of wealth and we should try to protect home labor and home food and home manufactures and when we do this it won't be long until we will become one of the most prosperous nations upon earth, although we get many needful articles from foreign lands, but we pay dearly for them when we look at the duty on them, our relation of intimacy with foreign lands are perfectly harmoniously with the exception of a little animosity between Canada and Uncle Sam, but that will eventually wear away and they will become as brother and sister, therefore I will just say that I have made the financial condition of the country, and the political movements of both parties a study for the last 10 years, and I know what I am talking about, so we need no salary grab business nor credit mobelizer, demagogues, but we need our laws enforced, and I think it nothing but right for every man to say something upon the movements and doings of this country and the men of our times. And in conclusion I will just say what the corn-crackers say: That I believe a Kentucky is the coming man, for Kentucky is a grand and glorious land, Yes, Kentucky is a grand and glorious blue-grass State, And the Convention can reject or nominate.

ALBERT S. WHITE.

Courier-Journal please copy and send bill to this office.

There is a railroad project on hand which experts say is feasible, but which a few years ago would have been considered the dream of a lunatic. It is proposed to use the present railroad to Victoria, B. C., thence the new railroad will be built to Cape Prince of Wales on Behring Strait, a distance of about 1,100 miles; the strait is but 35 miles wide and having many islands therein, can be easily bridged; reaching East Cape in Asia, the road will be constructed to Peking, China, a distance of about 1,500 miles. The distance from Minneapolis to Peking by this route will be about 5,200 miles, so the trip can be made in about 10 days time. Thus the cheering intelligence is hurled at us that we can get the Asiatic cholera in a much purer and fresher State than by the old ocean route. [Paris News.]

There is no necessity for a row in the democratic ranks over second place on the ticket. We want New York and Indiana. Grover Cleveland can carry New York, and Gov. Gray can carry Indiana. That is enough; that is the ticket the party has settled upon, and that is the ticket that will be nominated at St. Louis next June, unless the signs of the times go for naught. [Louisville Times.]

"Father," said Robert, "I have long cherished a desire to go on the stage, and have at last decided by your permission, to—" "My son," interrupted the fond parent, "All this world's a stage. Take that hoe hanging in the woodshed and go out and dig those potatoes back of the orchard." The engagement lasted a week.

A receipt for making liquid blacking that will make a good shine and a quick one: Take of gum shellac 2 ounces, and dissolve in 3 quarts alcohol, then add 1 1/2 ounces camphor, and 2 ounces lamp black.

PRaise THE LORD.

LETTER FROM GEORGE O. BARNES

MOBILE, ALA., March 8, 1888.

DEAR INTERIOR.—Last Friday morning—the day after writing you last—I got another wrench of my poor back, which flew to that doleful sciatic nerve of mine, where lie stored up such dreadful capacities of pain, that I shudder when I think of being a whole magazine of just such electrically thrilling agonies. And the thought is intensified when I further know they are only waiting the diabolical touch of him, who goes about this usurped possession of his, marking his prey and springing on it with the roar of a hungry lion. This is the one the Savior bids us "fear." Not the good God, Who only wakes the slumbering capacities of bliss within us, by His gentle touch. I know nothing more truly Satanic than this substitution of the Blessed One for himself, which the devil has succeeded in foisting upon the Church, by means of "pious commentators," wrongly expounding Luke 12:5 and Matthew 10:28. There we are told to fear the devil and not fear God, our Father; as the subsequent verses clearly show. How guilt-driven men, stumbling over scripture, have, through this most comforting word, been taught to be afraid of God, instead of reassured in His presence, is one of the phenomena of false exegesis, that wandering angels weep over.

Well, I went to bed Friday morning, lost two services at Cuba; and was barely able to get through two others on Sunday morning and night, speaking from my chair in much weakness. Meanwhile, the good news had come that a preaching place had been found in Pensacola, Fla. And we concluded to come to Mobile, en route, and rest four days, hoping that, thus, I might be able to begin the new meeting Sunday next.

So we bid our dear Cuba friends adieu Monday night; ran down to Meridian; took a sleeper on the M. & O. and arrived in this city Tuesday a. m., at 5 o'clock. Our Pullman was shunted on a side-track and we slept undisturbed till 7, when a bus transferred us to our previously engaged lodgings. All very comfortable, and the dear LORD lovingly answered prayer, by keeping me from any relapse.

Perfect repose in this dear old quiet city, has almost restored me, in three days, to the status quo, and, we go on to Pensacola, God willing, to-morrow p. m.

After the service there we hope to return for a meeting here, as the Hall we want will probably be available at the latter date. The dear LORD has arranged both series, through the kind friends at Meridian, who did not rest till they succeeded in arousing something of the interest they themselves felt, in their friends, in the two cities, we so greatly wished to visit. Praise the LORD!

We are pleasantly located at the corner of Conti and Joachim streets, with a Mrs. Zeigler, of the Presbyterian persuasion; in the 3d story of her moderately priced boarding-house; to which—liking it well—we hope to return when we come to Mobile again.

I will not try my newly-found strength too far by writing a letter of the usual length; and pen this more to reassure my friends, to whom Mamma, Maricand George have written, in my stead, while on my back, than for any other reason. Otherwise it would soon get abroad—"Bro. Barnes dangerously ill! Laid aside from his work! Will, perhaps, never preach again! His friends very uneasy about him!" And other conjectures, as wholly devoid of truth.

Leaving Mobile, till its turn comes, I will only remark en passant, that we like it very much indeed. It is one of those staid old cities that impress you with a sense of their thorough respectability; and imbue a visitor with the restful feeling that a home amid such surroundings would be very pleasant.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Corn $4 per barrel.
—It was rumored here Saturday that V. M. Hill had been wounded at Jellico.

—G. W. Baker, former clerk of F. L. Thompson, is traveling for a Lexington grocery house. H. R. Fish, of Fountain Head, Tenn., is here to see his father, Judge Fish.

—John Proctor, upon whose head the doctors operated a month since, is slightly better. Drs. Lovell and Brown removed a large tumor from the breast of Mrs. Samuel Hysinger Wednesday.

—Henry McClure was up at your place Friday to see Dr. Carpenter. "Fishie," who has just returned from Frankfort, says he introduced a bill for moving back the mountain from Pineville.

—Wm. Poynter and two young men, Snodgrass and Lawrence, left Saturday for Pineville to join Gen. Duffield's surveying party. Emmett Snodgrass, who moved to Joliet, Ills., some three years since, returned Saturday to old Rockcastle. T. H. Clay was here with his family Saturday.

—Judge J. M. Fish, while at the supper table last Thursday evening, had a stroke of paralysis and for a time his life was despaired of. He is some better at present and it is earnestly hoped that he may soon recover. The Judge is one of our most substantial farmers and is highly esteemed by the entire county.

KINGSVILLE.

—The C. S. R. R. has completed stock pen and chute at this place. This has been a long felt want.

—John Calhoun, of Louisville, moved to his farm this week. Mr. C. intends "batching" this season. This won't do, girls, no indeed.

—James Ray returned from Anchorage yesterday, where he had been called to the bedside of his foster mother, who was very sick, but is slowly improving.

—John Watts returned from Lexington yesterday bringing with him a fine horse which he purchased while there. John is a hustler and don't you forget it.

—J. G. Crisler, of Walton, Ky., bought of Mrs. Nix her farm near Pleasant Point, P. O. C. A. Fox, of Colerain, O., bought of W. O. Watts 200 acres of land near Pleasant Point church.

—Our deputy clerk, W. L. McCarty, is kept almost busy now taking acknowledgments to deeds. He hardly gets time to sell a bill of groceries or fill a prescription by being called out on business of that nature.

—J. B. McKee, our enterprising fruit man, says he has 12,000 peach trees that have sufficient bloom yet uninjured, to produce a fine crop. Mr. McKee deserves success for the energy he has displayed and money he has expended on his fruit farm here.

MT. SALEM.

—The McKinney correspondent of the Somerset Reporter gives an exaggerated account of a circumstance which took place in this section, which those concerned wish put in its true light. It is asserted by the said correspondent that four young females went to a private house where liquor was kept for sale.

That liquor was furnished them and that three of them being used to the flowing bowl escaped its effects, but the other one, heretofore of spotless reputation, became much intoxicated, going upon the public highway exposing herself, &c. It is claimed by the person referred to that he did not keep the whisky for sale, but for his own use. That he thought he had as much legal right to keep it for his family use as some of the prohibitionists who keep it for the same purpose. That he neither gave nor sold them the liquor; that three of the young ladies were his wife's sisters and felt themselves at home, and going into a room where some was drawn in a glass, helped themselves. Also that his wife, coming into the room about that time, and fearing the young lady would take too much, attempted to get the glass from her, but was too late. It has also been fully demonstrated that the rumors of the young lady exposing herself on the highway has been much enlarged upon; that very few noticed her condition. The principal exposure of the young girl has been from the gossip of her connections and busy-body, pretended friends.

—Louis Richter, a wealthy young German, killed his sweetheart, Miss Schmidt, at Evansville, Ind., and then blew his own brains out because she refused to marry him.

—At Grove Hill, Ala., Sheriff George Allen shot and killed his nephew, ex-Sheriff David Carter, and then blew out his own brains. They quarreled over the political spoils.

—The Supreme Court of Ohio has decided that any colored child in that State, of school age, has a right to attend any free school in the district in which such child resides.

—The plan of the pensioners was developed in Ingall's speech, when he said the agitation would continue until the last name on the army roll was transferred to the pension roll.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Eggs are selling at 10 cents per dozen. Potatoes are worth 85 cents to $1 a bushel.

—Eighteen applicants for pensions were examined by the medical board at this place last Wednesday.

—John Eberline, who has been station agent at Hazel Patch for the past year, is clerking in the dry goods department of Jackson & Co.

—Robert Morris and William Crawford, charged with the murder of Gregory, were tried Saturday before Squire Baker. The squire will not render his decision before Monday, but it is the opinion of those who heard the testimony that Crawford will be held without bail, while Morris will probably be allowed to give bail.

—Another valuable box was taken from the express office at this place a few days ago by a young man named Easterly. He ordered $100 worth of the "queer," sent $50 to New York and put up $50 at the express office here on receipt of the package. The poor fool was almost heart-broken when he opened the box and found that he had been completely "taken in and done for." About this time it was whispered by some one in the crowd that a U. S. detective had been looking after the box, when Easterly immediately struck for tall timber. The box contained a sand rock this time, instead of a brick.

—Ed Yaden was arrested by Sheriff Pearl last week and taken to Coatsville, Indiana, where he is wanted on charge of wife poisoning. Yaden is a native of this county and is well connected, tho' he has been acting very badly himself for some time, having deserted his wife and living in adultery with other women. A prostitute by the name of Walden, with whom he was living, was killed by lightning last summer. This it seems should have been a warning to him, but he then took up with another prostitute by the name of Lucy Southernland, with whom he left the country, and nothing more was heard of him until a telegram was received last week stating that he was wanted at Coatsville, Ind.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

—A bill to exempt persons over 70 from poll tax has been introduced in the House.

—The bill requiring persons to procure license to sell pistol cartridges has been laid upon the table.

—Mr. Anderson has had a bill passed by the House to take the vote of Garrard on the question of prohibition.

—The House passed the bill to increase the fee for boarding prisoners from 50 to 60 cents by a vote of 43 to 42.

—The bill to increase the salaries of the appellate judges to $5,000 was laid upon the table in the House, 41 to 25.

—The House voted to amend the turnpike laws so as to exempt from the payment of tolls people going to or from funerals or to or from mill on horseback.

—The Manhattan Mining Co.'s bill came under the ban of Gov. Buckner's veto power because it is a wildcat measure, designed for purely speculative purposes.

—The Senate passed the bill appropriating $60,000 for the purpose of rebuilding the work shops of the penitentiary, which were sometime since destroyed by fire.

—A resolution to extend the session to April 3d has already been presented. Why not save time by making the date May 15th? The body will not adjourn before then.

—Senator Harris has a bill in the Senate to prevent any county or town from making any subscription to any enterprise greater than 4 per cent. of its assessed value at the time the vote is taken. It ought to pass.

—It is probable that the legislature will reduce the taxes to 42 cents and let the revenue law remain as it is. At least those who think there is some sense in the body are under that impression.

—Samuel Ward, of Rockcastle, introduced a bill to compel the attendance of children at public schools between the ages of 8 and 16 years. Any parent, or guardian, failing to comply with the provision of this act shall upon conviction be fined from $5 to $10 for the first offense and $20 for subsequent offenses.

—A graded liquor license bill has been presented by Mr. Myers, of Covington. License of the first-class or grade is fixed at $150 and entitles the licensee to sell by retail between the hours of 6 o'clock a. m. and 12 o'clock midnight on every day during the continuance of the license, Sunday excepted, but at no other hour or time. License of the second grade is $250 and entitles the licensee to sell such liquors between the hours of midnight and 6 o'clock a. m. License of the third grade authorizes the licensee to sell on Sunday only and is fixed at $100. The penalty for a violation is placed at a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500.

W. P. WALTON.

KAISER WILLIAM, the Emperor of Germany, died at Berlin Friday morning at 8:30 after a most eventful life of 91 years. He was a born soldier and entering the army at a tender age he was rapidly promoted. He was crowned King of Prussia in 1840, after a successful war with Austria and in 1870 defeated the armies of France. In the following year he was made Emperor of Germany and has since ruled that country most satisfactorily to its citizens. His son, the Crown Prince, will succeed him as Emperor, but he is suffering from an incurable disease and is likely to die at any moment. Prince William is acting as regent in the meantime and will be Emperor in event of the death of the Crown Prince. A great deal of the credit of the successful career of the old Kaiser is due to the fact that he called to his aid Von Moltke and Bismarck. The latter has been and will continue to be a big power behind the throne.

THE miserable brute, Macey Warner, who was hung at Jeffersonville Friday for the murder of a fellow convict, delivered a very fine temperance lecture on the scaffold. Taking hold of the rope which was soon to strangle his life out, he said: "If any of you ever put a glass of liquor to your lips think of Macey Warner with this rope in his hand, and before you drink look into the bottom of the glass and see if you cannot see a rope there." It was all very well to lay his troubles to whisky, but he was a born murderer and would have followed his bent without the aid of the vile stuff. Warner was less than 25 years old, yet he had killed two men and was serving his sentence for killing the first, when he murdered the other. There certainly was no whisky connected with the latter killing.

GEX. LANDRUM takes us to task in the Danville Tribune, of which we are informed that he is the editor, for venting our spite and animosity towards Col. O'Bradley, his warm friend and fellow citizen. We really had formed the impression that the general was too smart a man to make such a charge, but it seems we had not properly diagnosed his case. There is nothing further from us than animosity towards the colonel, who is a devilish good fellow in his way, and in our remarks about him, we have never, never set down aught in malice. We have simply been having a little fun at his expense and as it gives him the notoriety he is seeking, his friends should applaud not censure us for it. We happen to know that O'Bradley himself enjoys everything except reference to his short legs and poor running qualities.

ON the first page of this impression of the INTERIOR JOURNAL will be found a production by a Wayne county gentleman, who would have ranked with Henry Watterson as a writer had not his early education in orthography and punctuation been seriously neglected. He manages to get there however in his article and to present views which show he is on the right side of the fence. We commend the gentleman to Brer Thompson, of the Monticello Signal and suggest that he employ him to edit his paper. Mr. White is a genius and ought not to be allowed to hide his talents under a bushel.

BRER HAVENS, of the Mt. Sterling Sentinel, still lets our little suggestion stick in his craw that it is a decidedly cheeky and egotistic proceeding for an editor to print his own picture in his paper, even if he is altogether lovely as himself and has taken every occasion since he "yielded to the solicitation of his patrons" and gave them a counterfeit presentment of his phiz, to get even with us. But it is useless. It still remains a fact that Col. W. T. Havens and Capt. David A. Murphy are the only two men ever guilty of parading their beautiful countenances in their own papers, and we suppose they will always wear the distinction.

IN AN article reciting the shortcomings of perhaps the worst legislature that ever assembled in any State, the Owensboro Inquirer, in the innocence of its young soul, exclaims, "But thank the Lord, the 17th of March is not far off!" Goodness, child, don't you know that the "per deem" drawers will not give up the best thing they ever had on that day, nor some other day, until they have entirely exhausted the patience of their long-suffering constituency?

CHAIRMAN SHARP has called a meeting of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees at Lexington, March 20th, at 8:30 P. M., for the purpose of fixing a time and place for holding the State convention to name delegates to the national convention. It is likely that the convention will be held in Lexington.

THE Louisville Commercial has blossomed out into an illustrated daily and employed a house carpenter to make its cuts. He shows very poor aptness for the business, so far, but we join the suffering public in hoping that he will learn. Dan O'Sullivan could make better pictures with his jack-knife.

—The entire revenue received from tobacco last year was $30,108,067.14.

THE chairman of the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Press Association, Emmett G. Logan, suggests that in order to prevent a conflict of dates with the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis and in order to give a chance to those who wish to attend the republican blow-out at Chicago, that the date of the meeting of the association be changed to July 4th, and asks an expression of opinion from those interested. The I. J. rises to second the motion. Press conventions are good enough, but they come every year, while the national conventions are quadrennial. It will therefore have to give way this year and the editors could not spend the glorious 4th more patriotically than in coming together for mutual benefit and the salvation of the country at large.

THE population of Stanford and the circulation of the INTERIOR JOURNAL are both rapidly increasing. The combination of a few things like these ought to send Col. Bill Welch to Congress.—[Yesterday's Courier Journal. Unfortunately the Colonel has no political ambition whatever or we might send him to Washington after McCreary gets tired of his place and wants to be promoted to the Senate.

ON motion of Speaker Johnson, who seems to be of that class of Summer coons who want the linked sweetness drawn out as long as possible, the House has resolved to extend the session indefinitely. If the body of "per deem" drawers got a fixed salary instead, as in several other States, say $300, the session would never extend beyond 60 days.

EXCEPT for a little pride of country nobody will seriously regret that the burly brute, John L. Sullivan, came out little the worst in his fight with Mitchell, the English slugger. They fought in France Saturday, and after 39 rounds, occupying 3½ hours, it was decided a draw, though our man got more than he bargained for.

THE Mississippi legislature has adjourned, but the Kentucky legislature, alas like the brook, seems destined to go on forever with its "demmed horrid grind."

—One night last week the wife of a gentleman living in the southwest part of town was called to the door by the ringing of the door-bell. On opening it a burly negro stood before her, who asked if her husband (naming him) was at home, and on being told that he was not, he replied, "Well, you are the one I want," and with that he placed his hands upon her. She screamed, when the nurse and cook coming to her assistance the scoundrel fled. There is a strong suspicion as to his identity and it found he will pay dearly for the outrage.

—There will be no more circuit court until Thursday, when Matt Brooks alias Withers, another of the alleged White-cotton murderers, will be tried. There is a slight disposition among a few persons, who either do not know, or do not care what they are saying, to criticize Judge Morrow for giving a peremptory instruction in the case of Jim Carroll last week. The fact is he did exactly right in not permitting the case to go to the jury, as there was not sufficient evidence to justify such a course, or any other than the one pursued.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Mortimer Rothwell killed a wild goose on Thursday near town. It weighed 7½ pounds and was a beauty.

For the year closing March 1st his sales were $423,558.80. The largest single day's sale was $18,784.80. There isn't a better deputy in the service than Mr. Sandifer.

—The Danville people presented Damon and Pythias to a very good sized audience on Friday night. Had it been better advertised there would have been a large crowd. The play was well presented. The only fault the critics of Lancaster could find was a lack of plumpness in the limbs of the young men who took part in the performance.

AFTER examination of the bill County Attorney D. R. Carpenter says:

The road law passed by Mr. Davison not only puts the burden of working and keeping in repair the roads in Lincoln county upon the owners of property, but places an additional burden upon such owners of paying the ordinary expenses of the county. The bill provides that all persons who are not property owners can work out the poll tax on the road, but a land owner cannot. The money raised now to meet the ordinary or general expenses of the county, is raised by a poll tax and a property tax and if the persons who pay nothing but a poll tax are permitted to settle that tax by working on the roads, it necessarily produces a deficiency in the fund raised to meet the ordinary expenses or demands of the county. This deficiency has to be raised from some source and the only way it can be done is by increased property tax or poll tax. It matters not which under Mr. Davison's bill, as the burden is upon the land owner, whether he owns land worth $5 or $10,000. It virtually relieves the man who owns no property from taxation of any kind.

Bargains.—Since moving our entire stock up stairs we have a lot of plow harnesses, pumps, hoes, forks, shovels and other goods we want to close out and will sell them cheap. Geo. D. Wearen, Manager.

An unpredicted cold wave bore down on us Saturday night, bringing snow and hail with it, making Sunday a very disagreeable day. Yesterday was bright, but a keen east wind made it decidedly unpleasant.

J. T. Harris says he has received a big lot of collars, bridles, hames, plow gear, &c., but is suffering too much with a carbuncle to let the people into his store yet awhile. They will save money by waiting on him, however.

Prohibition Meeting.—Mr. P. L. Simpson requests us to state that there will be a meeting of the friends of prohibition at the Court-house in Stanford, on Saturday, March 17th, at 2 p. m. for the transaction of important business.

That Box.—Sister Rose Richards says that more of the money for the Barnes box comes to her by letter than is placed in it here. She received $2.50 from a friend at Paint Lick and $1 from one at Keene, Ky., the latter not even giving her name. Don't forget the box but put something on it, however small.

A copy of the new road law was received by County Attorney Carpenter yesterday and upon an examination we find that its provisions are even more sweeping than given in our last issue. We shall publish the document in full in our next issue so that those affected by the law can see how far Lawyer Davison has overreached himself.

The card of the firm of Penny & Herbert appears in this issue. Dr. Herbert is a graduate of the Ohio College of Dental Surgery and Dr. Penny is too well-known hereabouts to need an introduction. The firm asks its share of your patronage.

Is It True.—A Stanford correspondent to the Harrodsburg Democrat charges that there have been several births in the Lincoln county poor-house recently. Women of that character should not be permitted to live on the county's bounty and it charges are true they should be bounced.

DEAD.—Mr. Sam M. Owens received a dispatch from his brother Soc, at Harrodsburg, yesterday, stating that his dear little Agnes died at 7:30 that morning. This is the third little daughter to die and she will be buried by the side of her little sisters in Buffalo Cemetery today at 1 o'clock.

C. P. MARCUM, the counterfeiter, whose people live in this county, was given two years in the penitentiary. He did not squeal on his pals, but they will be caught up with in due time. There were 27 convictions at the late term of the U. S. Court in Louisville. A fellow rarely ever gets off when once the Federal authorities take hold of him.

LUNATIC.—Mrs. Wesley Wilshire was adjudged a lunatic Saturday and taken to the Asylum at Lexington. This is the third time she has been sent there. She would get apparently well, but after remaining at home a short time would again become wild and dangerous to herself and family. Her ravings here were entirely on religious matters.

Mr. J. P. BAILEY, circuit clerk, informs us that there will be 226 Commonwealth cases on the docket of the court, which commences Monday next; 138 old equity cases; 24 equity appearances; 24 ordinary appearances and 51 old ordinary. Of the Commonwealth cases 50 are against one man for violating the prohibition law and 48 against another.

The State Sunday School Evangelist, Elder Alex O. Hopkins, gave a praise service Sunday night, at the Christian church, illustrated by some choice scriptural views with the aid of a sciopticon, which were very fine. Last night he gave a sciopticon entertainment and to-night will give another. Mr. Hopkins is a very fine singer and the programme is varied with some excellent music. The admission is only 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children and as the proceeds are for the benefit of a good cause, the church ought to be packed to-night.

While the INTERIOR JOURNAL is not and never can be anything but a democratic paper, as long as the present management presides over its destiny, it is yet ready and willing to publish anything for either the prohibitionists or republicans that would be of interest to any number of its readers, and the friends of either organization can draw on us at any time at will. We shall always advocate democratic doctrine pure and simple, but we are not hide bound, and consequently do not fear to give others a fair show as long as they show by their actions that they deserve it.

Perhaps on the principle that a man had as well go the whole hog when he undertakes a thing, whether there is a pecuniary consideration or not, the Signal Service has proposed to "Display-man" Walton that if he will take the temperature three times a day, the humidity of the atmosphere as many times and carefully measure each rainfall and report to the department once a week, together with his opinion of the effect of such conditions upon the crops, it will furnish him with a thermometer, barometer and rain gauge upon his giving sufficient bond that he will return them at the end of his service or pay their value should they be broken or destroyed. It is hardly necessary to state that he has ordered the outfit. He is used to working for the public good "free, gratis for nothing."

—The Gen. Patterson post, G. A. R., of Philadelphia, resolved that the thanks of the post be tendered to Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, for so nobly defending the memory of those tried and true patriots, Gens. George B. McClellan and Winfield S. Hancock.

GARDEN SEEDS, Onion Sets, Seed Beans, and Peas at A. A. Warren's "Model Grocery."

Another large lot of trunks and valises. Zinc trunks from $2.50 to $12.50 at Bruce & McRoberts'.

The Lancaster people with one accord say that the Damon and Pythias performance there by the Danville people was the poorest leg show ever seen. Before it goes on the road again we would suggest the propriety of an investment in false calves, if the entertainment is to be judged from that standpoint.

Our rushing business manager writes that he had gathered in 15 new subscribers at London yesterday by 11 o'clock and was still gathering them in right and left. A popular agent for a popular paper can work wonders and we have both combinations. We had already about 50 subscribers in the pretty little mountain city.

We fear that Bro. Barnes will have finally to submit to the new cure for sciatica—nerve stretching—before he can be rid of that most infernal disease. Several of our lawyers are so familiar with the operation now that they could almost perform it themselves, and the doctors agree that it is the proper treatment for the complaint.

FASHIONABLE merchant tailoring and fine clothing by John H. Craig & Co., with Wanamaker & Brown, Philadelphia, and Browning, King & Co., New York, the largest and most elegant establishments in this line of business in the world. City styles, metropolitan designs and perfect fits assured, or no sale.

News comes by our private telegraph wire from Lancaster that there was a "wow and a wumpus" there yesterday between two hitherto loving brethren of the republican persuasion. The lie passed, blows were exchanged in regular Sullivan-Mitchell style, the claret was drawn and the battle raged till friends rushed in and declared a draw. The cause of the row grew out of some resolutions presented at the Women's Christian Temperance Union Sunday night, which warmly endorsed Senator Rigney and Representative Anderson for their steadfast course in favor of prohibition and rather reflecting on Judge Morrow for his decision on the law voted in the Lancaster precinct. Commonwealth's Attorney Herndon felt it incumbent upon himself, being as he owed his election to Morrow, to rise and ask that the latter part of the resolution be stricken out. A vote was taken and it was not stricken out by a very large majority. On the motion Squire Kinnaird, Wesley West and other republicans voted "no" and Moss Kirby and others "yea." It was over the vote that Kirby and West quarreled and fought, not remembering that their little hands were never made to tear each other's eyes. Judge Owsley presented the resolutions for the women and defended them with his might and main.

The Methodist University at Mitchell, Dakota, burned and five persons lost their lives in addition to several others wounded. The building was valued at $50,000.

Bishop Dudley denies that the Diocese of Kentucky numbers 2,258 communicants with total contributions $38,872.40. The correct figures are 5,714 communicants and $113,327.27 contributions.

Rev. T. S. McWilliams disappointed his congregation here Sunday. Prof. S. J. Pulliam received a letter from him yesterday stating that his failure to come was due to excruciating pain from the effects of having a tooth extracted.

Rev. F. S. Pollitt returned on Saturday from Covington, where he has been assisting Rev. Rector Savage in a protracted meeting. As fruits of their labor there were over 50 conversions and 32 additions to the church.—[Harrodsburg Democrat.]

The Baptist church last Saturday reconsidered their former action, calling Rev. P. G. Elsom for three Sundays a month for a year, and called him for his entire time for an indefinite period. He has accepted though he had more lucrative offers from Georgia and Virginia, so that he could attend the Theological Seminary another year and become a full graduate.

—The Gen. Patterson post, G. A. R., of Philadelphia, resolved that the thanks of the post be tendered to Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, for so nobly defending the memory of those tried and true patriots, Gens. George B. McClellan and Winfield S. Hancock.

THE MISSION OF A TRAMP.

[The following article is sent by Mr. Daniel Stagg with the request that it be published for the benefit of some poor tempted fellowman and his family. Ed.]

It was only a family gathering at Squire Dunlap's, this Thanksgiving. John's folks had come down from town, and Lida and the children had stopped on their way home from church.

"I've a great mind to set the table in the kitchen," said Mother Dunlap. "It's more comfortable than the dining-room."

"Do, mother," returned John, quickly. "It will be so much more home-like. It does not seem like old times when you make quality of Lida and me."

"That's so," chimed in naively Lida. "There is no place so heartsome as the dear old kitchen."

So the long extension table was spread in the kitchen, and the whole family from little tottling Freddy to the silver-headed grandfather gathered round the tempting dinner. While the squire was carving the great brown turkey, a timid knock at the door hushed the merry voices.

"Some of those impudent peddlers," said Mother Dunlap, as she resolutely placed her coffee urn on the stove. "I'll send him about his business, I'll be bound," she continued as she crossed the kitchen to answer the knock. But when she opened the door she stepped hastily back; for instead of the expected peddler, it was a most forlorn, woe-begone tramp, humbly begging for a morsel to eat. His white hair and hungry face did not appeal to her in vain. Bidding him take a seat on the porch, she closed the door and began buttering bread to satisfy his hunger.

"O mother, let him come in and eat by the fire," coaxed the Squire.

"In Joshua Dunlap! I just wish you could see his tattered, dirty clothes. Why, he'd bring us cholera or small-pox," responded Mrs. Dunlap, briskly.

"Never mind, mother, he can sit on that old split-bottom chair, and I'll guarantee he will not disturb us. See how it storms, and this is Thanksgiving, you know. Let us make one fellow-being happy."

So, though very ungraciously, the tramp was given a warm corner in the kitchen; and a heaping plate of hot turkey, savory vegetables, and a steaming bowl of fragrant coffee were followed by delicious dessert, with such slices of cake and pie as would have satisfied the hunger of a much more critical taste than that of the miserable vagrant.

"It is Thanksgiving, and I want everybody to have something to give thanks for," the Squire would say at every new manifestation of his generosity.

The poor old tramp's eyes as well as his tongue, were not remiss in expressing his gratitude until, to complete the feast, the kind-hearted host pressed upon him a glass of sparkling wine.

Starting back quickly, a look of horror came into the small grey eyes that had been so expressionless before, and the tramp said in a hoarse voice: "Take it away. It is a murderer!"

"Ungrateful wretch!" cried the Squire. "How dare you insult my hospitality thus? After partaking of my bounty to cast such slander in my teeth?"

"Pardon me, sir. I meant no offense," answered the wretched specimen of humanity, "but I can not touch any kind of spirits."

"It is not often that gentlemen in your standing are so choice about their fare," retorted Mr. Dunlap in a mocking tone.

"I agree with you, sir; but when I tell you that I once had a happy home, and gathered my sons and daughters around me on Thanksgiving Days, and bidden them drink each other's health, just as you are doing to-day, and that it was the wine glass that ruined that home, and sent me a vagabond upon God's earth, you will not wonder that I hate its very sight."

"That's no affair of mine," snapped the Squire, as he passed the glass in his hand to his youngest son, William, a youth of seventeen.

The tramp shuddered a little and then went on as if talking to himself: "Yes, I was once a respected barrister, who not only bequeathed to my children the legacy of a depraved appetite, but who strengthened that appetite by daily tampering with choice wines in their presence and on extra occasions, allowing them the luxury of my rare champagnes. Twenty years ago to-day I arose from my last Thanksgiving dinner. My intemperate habits had become so public as to injure me socially, and my business, of course had begun to suffer. Financial troubles stared me in the face, and to escape the convictions of my conscience I drank deeper than ever before, that day. In my maddened fury, which increased with the shadows of the night, I took my little six-year-old boy from the arms of his mother, and threw him down the stairs, injuring him in such a way as to render him a cripple for life. I idolized my baby and the blow almost killed me. Still I only vowed to be more temperate in my use of intoxicating drinks—not to forsake them altogether—and soon I was their slave as much as ever. Creditors seized our property, and we were cast upon the cold world—homeless. My clients forsook me, and the support of the family devolved upon my poor, frail wife.

"I will never forget the next Thanksgiving—the last my wife spent on earth. By hard work and close economy she and the boys had saved enough to buy a turkey and a few other luxuries for the Thanksgiving dinner—thereby hoping to give me a pleasant surprise. I overheard their planning, and after they had retired I rose from my feigned sleep and carried the turkey to the nearest saloon and traded it for liquor. In the morning the reproaches and tears of my family so angered me that I drove them out into the blinding storm, and in spite of their pleadings I was arrested and a few weeks later I was sentenced to six months imprisonment."

"When I again breathed the free air of heaven, my delicate wife and cripple boy were dead—buried in the Potter's Field—and my daughter and four sons were scattered among strangers."

Here the old man's emotion choked him and he buried his face in his hands and wept bitterly. At length the paroxysm of grief having subsided, he looked up, and took up the broken thread of his story.

"From that day to this I have been a sworn enemy to every form of intoxicants. As I could not gain a foothold in any profession, I was compelled to accept odd jobs wherever I could pick them up, and all these years I have been a wanderer on earth. Had this been the only curse that followed me, I should never have complained, for I deserve it all; but the brand of Cain was upon my children. One of my sons now fills a drunkard's grave—sent there by the hand of his frenzied brother, who is today a prisoner for life because of the crime committed while under the influence of rum—and the remaining son, who furnished the weapon to both destroyer and destroyed, refused to raise a hand or lend a dollar to have the hard sentence mitigated. When I reproached him with being the real culprit, he turned upon me like a tiger, and accused me of being the originator of all the woes and shame that had overtaken my family, and I could not give him back the lie, for I knew it was only too true. My daughter would spurn her old father from her door should he essay to tread upon her threshold."

"I am old, poor and alone, and nothing but your kindness could have induced me to uncover the old wounds to a stranger's gaze. You have done me a favor for which I am truly grateful—a favor which my own kin would have denied me—and I have repeated my sad story with the hope of rendering you a lasting service—of warning these young men of the dangerous path they have entered. There is always danger in the wine-cup! The father may be safe, but his sons, with inherited tastes and unfeeling constitutions to overcome, can not resist temptation with his strong will."

He looked at the bright young faces grouped around the table as he finished. Willie still held the glass his father had given him, and when he caught the earnest, troubled look in the eye of the old, forsaken tramp, he placed it resolutely on the table and said, with a ring of decision in his voice:

"I have drunk my last glass of wine, so help me God!"

"Amen!" responded the tramp.

The Squire wiped his eyes with his sleeve, complaining that "this mean old keeps my eyes running from morning till night."

The old tramp did not go out into the storm that night; and in the morning, when he set forth on his journey again, he was clad in clean, comfortable garments and in his pocket there lay a railroad ticket that would carry him back to the home of his childhood. A few days later, a card telling of his safe arrival and again thanking his benefactors for their kindness, was received.

This was the last the Dunlaps ever heard of their Thanksgiving tramp, but he had accomplished his mission—wine never appeared on their table again. Even the Squire himself, when he discovered what a struggle it cost him to give up his glass, acknowledged the danger in store for his boys and expressed his gratitude to the poor old tramp they had befriended on that stormy Thanksgiving Day. [Mrs. Belle V. Chisholm, in House and Health.]

The jury of 12 was adopted because the prophets were 12; the apostles were 12; there were 12 Jewish judges, 12 pillars of the temple, 12 patriarchs, 12 tribes of Israel, 12 stones in Aaron's breastplate, 12 gates of Jerusalem, 12 signs of the zodiac. When juries were first established the judge took the jurors around with him in a cart until they agreed. If they didn't agree they were fined and imprisoned.

Lives of great men all remind us that if we cannot do more, we can tell our neighbors how Gant's chicken cholera cure restored our chickens, that were sick enough to die, to perfect health and that if it fails your money will be refunded by McRoberts & Stagg. 21

A New Yorker's Contrivance.
A N-York man is said to be at work on a contrivance with which he hopes to make all housekeepers forever independent of gas and coal companies. It is a metal box which can be left standing anywhere, and into it is thrown all the refuse of the house, including dust, ashes and the debris of the table. Certain chemical agents are then set at work and electricity is produced and stored which may afterward be used for heat and light. But there are to be no coal stoves about the house, where with the ashes come from Boston Travers.

FIELD AND FARMYARD.

AFTER four years, or about the time young trees should begin to bear, the orchard may be seeded down to grass. Clover is best.

It makes a wonderful difference under what conditions a cow is raised. Large, fine, even luxuriant crops on one hand, and uneven and feeble ones on the other, and if they are late in ripening, the frost is ready to take its share. The difference between the two may be hundreds of dollars on a single farm.

The difference between good and poor seed is often the difference between a large, fine, even luxuriant crop on one hand, and uneven and feeble ones on the other, and if they are late in ripening, the frost is ready to take its share. The difference between the two may be hundreds of dollars on a single farm.

The seeds for sugar beets are sown in spring about corn-planting time, or a little earlier. On good soil, with thorough cultivation, they have been known to yield as high as twelve hundred bushels per acre. Fed in moderate quantities, with hay or other dry feed, they are excellent for sheep and other stock.

Early lambs are profitable, and none should be lost for lack of care. A warm stable and plenty of roots will conduce to the comfort and health of the ewes. If the lamb is very weak and feeble at first, do not allow it to get chilled; nursing and care will often save an apparently hopeless case, and at the same time save money for the owner.

Potatoes are decidedly benefited by moderate applications of coal ashes in almost any kind of soil. They are also used with good results as a mulch around trees and shrubbery. For this purpose the ashes may be spread on the surface two or three inches deep. Coal ashes from the house are generally mixed with more or less wood ashes, which act directly and powerfully as a fertilizer.

Straw knees in horses are generally caused by over exertion, or some work which throws an extraordinary strain on the forelegs. In some horses there is an hereditary tendency toward this ailment. In most cases it is difficult to determine where the exact seat of the trouble is located. As a rule medicines do little good here, yet in some cases an operation may restore the animal.

A noner needs at least two pails of water a day, and if given half a pail before meals, or four times a day, it will be sufficient, unless when hard at work in sultry weather. Do not give warm water at any time of the year, but the chill may be taken off in winter, so that it will not be icy. Do not water or feed directly after coming in very warm, and do not work hard immediately after eating heartily.

A good liquid grafting wax, adapted for grafting the wounds made in pruning trees, and to other purposes, may be made by melting one pound of resin over a gentle fire and stirring in one ounce of beef tallow. When the mixture, after being removed from the fire, has cooled off somewhat, eight ounces of alcohol are to be added to it. If too cool for mixing, place over the fire again, carefully guarding the alcohol against taking fire. When cool put it in bottles or cans, and keep well closed.

SOMNAMBULISTIC FEATS.
A Chicago young man while in a somnambulist state one night recently mistook his wife for a peddler, of whom he had been dreaming, and ordered her out of the room. Upon being awakened he found that he had kicked her out of bed, much to her surprise and disgust.

A FAIRLAND in the employ of a farmer near Trenton, N. J., one night, not long since, while asleep, jumped through a window to the ground, twenty feet below, carrying the sash with him, and walked two miles. When found he was still asleep and nearly frozen to death.

An engineer on the Erie railroad one night, while going at a speed of thirty miles an hour, noticed the flutter of some thing white on his cowcatcher and on going forward discovered a young woman in her night-dresses. She had wandered out in her sleep and clambered to her perilous perch while the engine was stopping and was awakened by his whistle. Her escape from death was marvellous.

A BARBER in London has recently performed a rather clever feat. The shop was full of customers, and one of them was undergoing the operation of shaving, when it was noticed that the barber had his eyes closed, though he still kept passing the razor over the face of his visitor. After some time, and when the operation was finished, what was the surprise of those in the shop to hear the barber exclaim: "O no, not yet," at the same time opening his eyes. It then became evident that he was fast asleep, and had shaved the man while in that condition.

A new night-ago, on a very cold night, a ten-year-old son of Silas Torrence, of Pankutawney, arose from his bed while asleep, and without stopping to put on his clothes, unlocked the front door and went out into the cold world. He went to the house of a neighbor about two hundred yards distant, rapped on the window and asked admittance, saying there were robbers in his father's house. He was sent home, and there called up his parents and told the same story about robbers. His mother shook him briskly and he awoke.

Wilkins Micawber was sired by RYNDYCK'S HAMBLETONIAN, dam Lady Brown, dam of Pickwick, 22 1/2, by Seeley's American Star, grand dam by Nigger Lance, son of Lance, son of American Eclipse.

Wilkins Micawber died young and left but few colts; but from his great speed, rich breeding and magnificent form, he gave abundant promise of a most brilliant career, both on the track and in the stud. Major Thomas Morton, of New York, wrote us that he refused for Wilkins Micawber just a short time before his death an offer of $25,000, and the great driver, Carl Barr, says that he has always considered it a loss in the death of Wilkins Micawber breeders sustained the loss of one of the very greatest of all the great sons of old Hambletonian.

Ryndyck's Hambletonian, who sired both sire and dam of HARKAWAY, has sired 40 230 performers and has sired 105 sons who have sired over 600 230 performers and has sired the dams of 50 performers with records of 230 and better, proving him the greatest trotting horse progenitor that has yet appeared, and ALLIE, the dam of Harkaway, is one of his two greatest daughters. The only horse approaching Ryndyck's Hambletonian as a sire yet appeared, and ALLIE, the dam of Harkaway, we know the breeding of HARKAWAY will bear the closest analysis and we have every confidence that he will produce speed and we believe those patronizing him will realize as much profit from his produce as from the produce of any horse in the land, and his filly should make brood mares worthy the embraces of the bluest blood. Breeders are invited to call and examine for themselves the horse and his produce. Attention is called to the following extract:

OLNEY, ILL., MAR. 10, 1887.
Harkaway never made one that could be called a season in his life until you bought him. Our people were absolutely dead to the merits of the trotter. He served two mares when three years old and got two colts, both owned here, and you could not buy either for $500. * * * You can not buy a Harkaway youngster in or around Olney for less than $400 to $500, out of common mares. He served in his whole life 21 mares and got 19 foals. For several years he ran wild in pasture and covered no mares, during the time I was trying to see whether I would go under or stay on top of the soil.
